13 MINERS KILLED IN MINE EXPLOSION

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Joe Brown—you all know good old Joe, don't you? Well if you don't, think nothing of it.

* * * *

As we were saying, Joe Brown, good old Joe, came up to us the other day, buttonholed us into a corner and before we could offer an excuse started to talk.

* * * *

"I'm a very, very, very, remarkable person," Joe started in his usual modest, blushing fashion. "What is more, I admit that I am good."

* * * *

"Now, ain't dat sompin," we remarked, showing our usual apt ability of coining new phrases—just like that—snap it's a gift.

* * * *

"You know," Joe says, "I did something funny last year about this time. I made some New Year's resolutions!"

* * * *

"Well, well, well, well," says we, "now, truly, that is remarkable." But it was lost upon him. More than one barb of sarcasm has been blunted upon Joe's tough hide.

* * * *

"What's more," Joe says, disregarding the interruption, "I kept every one of those resolutions!"

* * * *

For a minute we couldn't believe our ears. Joe Brown of all people keeping a New Year's resolution. Privately we don't think Joe could keep a cold . . . not one of those nose blowing kinds—but the kind you cough with and rub your chests for and wish that you were in an early grave.

* * * *

"Well, as I was saying before I was so rudely interrupted," Joe went on, "I kept every one of 'em."

"Go on, go on," says we. "We're biting our nails with excitement. Quick, before the suspense kills me."

* * * *

"Well," says Joe, "I resolved that I wouldn't swim the Atlantic ocean, nor would I fly to the North Pole, nor would I wear a corset, nor would I bake a pie, nor would I write a story and I kept every one of 'em!"

* * * *

And with this he uttered a shrill cry and went tripping merrily away, just dodging in time.

TRANS OCEAN MAIL ROUTE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—UP—Bids for a trans-Atlantic airmail route, marking the definite establishment of continued service will be opened here Dec. 29.

The proposed route will be from New York by Norfolk, Va., or Charlestown, South Carolina, then to Hamilton, Bermuda and the Azores and thence to a point in Europe to be designated by Postmaster General Brown.

The contract will be for a 10 year period beginning June 1, 1931.

LOCAL MAN GETS SCHOOL BID

SANFORD TO START WORK HERE SOON

P. M. Sanford was preparing to construct the six-room addition to Woodrow Wilson school today, following his successful bid for the work, according to announcement from the elementary school board yesterday.

J. S. Hannah of San Francisco was the lowest bidder when the bids were opened by the school board last week, but it was discovered that he failed to include installation of blackboards and venetian blinds in his estimates.

It was with the consent of Hannah that the school board rejected his low bid.

P. M. Sanford, contractor of this city, the next lowest bidder was then awarded the contract at his estimated cost of $26.890. Hannah had estimated $24,340.

A special meeting of the school board was called yesterday to make the award. School district law requires that the lowest bidder be given the contract.

With the awarding of the contract to Sanford, Richmond was assured that residents of this city would be employed in the construction work.

Bids for the installation of heating equipment have not been acted upon yet by the school board. Three firms bid for the work. All are outside concerns. George Schuster offered to install the equipment for $3640, to be the lowest of the three bidders.

Two Planes In Hunt For Fliers

KETCHIKAN, Alaska, Nov. 29.—UP—Rescue expeditions searching for Pilot Robin Renahan and two companions were reduced to two planes today when two Canadian aviators returned to Vancouver, B. C., for repairs to their motors.

Two Navy planes under Lieut. Charles F. Gerber and chief radio electrician Claude Alexander, continued soaring over the jagged coast lines and islands between Ketchikan and Prince Rupert, B. C. hunting for some trace of the three men who disappeared a month ago while flying to join in the search for Captain E. J. A. Burke and two companions in the Liard river district.

Oakland Theater Will Be Built

OAKLAND, Nov. 29.—UP—Construction of the $1,000,000 Paramount-Publix theater in this city, plans for which were completed today is expected to be started at once.

The theater to be located at Broadway, Twentieth, Hobart, and Telegraph will have entrances on all these streets with main doorway on the Broadway side.

The facade of the building will be in Spanish tile arranged to depict film scenes. When complete the building will seat 3500 people. A San Francisco firm was awarded the contract.

COUNTY AID BUDGET TOLD

A total of $37,216.54 was expended in caring for the needy of this county by the social welfare department of Contra Costa county for the period between June 1 and October 31, according to a statement just issued by the Contra Costa County division of California Taxpayers' association.

The sum expended for the same period last year was only $25,689.12. Mrs. Ruth McCord, head of the social welfare department has been compelled to ask a special advance of $10,000 over the department's budget by the board of supervisors. However, the state's apportionment of old age pensions is expected to off-set this additional outlay.

County aid for the months between June 1 and Oct. 31 has been extended as follows:

Cash furnished	$22,608.64
Supplies furnished	4,034.43
Medicine furnished	106.85
Rents furnished	967.30
Board and Care	258.68
Transportation, etc.	200.79
	$28,176.69
Old Age Pensions	9,039.85
Totals	$37,216.54

There was a total of 448 cases on the books of the welfare department on Oct. 31. Aid has been extended for the following causes, according to the report of the Taxpayers' association:

Nnemployment	13
Underemployment	40
Widows with dependent children	79
Orphans	9
Chronic illness	32
Tuberculosis	8
Blindness	15
Imprisonment	12
Family Desertion	20
Old Age Disability	164
Various	56
Total	448

The social welfare department is attempting to not only alleviate trouble and sorrow but to strongly establish families so that county aid will never again be required by them. The department tries to secure work for those in need of aid so that they be able to carefully for their family's needs.

German Ban On U. S. Film Lifted

BERLIN, Nov. 29.—Protest of defense ministry over showing of the American film "All Quiet on the Western Front" was overruled by the censorship board today and its premier will be Dec. 4.

The defense ministry claimed that the film cast aspersions at the German army, and hence on the Reich.

MAN TO FACE BAD CHECK CHARGES

A flying tackle executed by a 16-year-old high school boy landed an alleged check artist in the hands of Richmond police last night.

Gordon Lemon is the boy who made the tackle after Steve Stimac 34 of Jackson attempted to get away with a pair of shoes and socks he had just acquired from a local shoe store at 820 Macdonald avenue, police reports state.

Stimac came into the store shortly after 5 o'clock last night and was fitted with a pair of shoes and socks. For payment he offered a check for $29.50 allegedly written by J. L. Barnaman, police declare.

Actions of the man aroused the suspicions of James Hopkins, a clerk at the store who volunteered to determine if Barnaman really wrote the check.

The suggestion of Hopkins did not meet with the approval of Stimac, who started to edge away from the youthful Gordon Lemon. Soon the man broke into a run, but was stopped dead in his tracks with a flying tackle by Lemon, police report.

Police were called and took Stimac to headquarters where he was booked on a forgery and ficticious check charge. The forgery charge was filed because of the check bearing the name of J. L. Barnaman, who declared he knew nothing of the origin of the matter.

Hopkins in addition to noticing the queer actions of Stimac recalled that his uncle, who is a merchant in Burlingame told him that three ficticious checks for $29.50, the same amount for which this check was drawn, had been cashed on merchants of that city this week. With that in mind he proposed the appearance of Barnaman, and the capture of Stimac followed.

Stimac was questioned by T. N. Calfee, deputy district attorney last night in an effort to link him with other bad check jobs. He is being held at the city prison without bail, pending his appearance in police court Monday.

Football Star Faces Charges

SEATTLE, Nov. 29.—A former college football player was being held in jail here following his confession to a number of crimes, which included 10 holdups.

John Cather, 20, the arrested man was the companion of Dan Bunker, killed Sunday when hit by a stone thrown after the two had attempted to hold up a grocery store.

Cather played for College of Puget Sound last year and previous to that time was on the squad of Bellingham State Normal, where he studied to become a teacher.

FOUR OTHERS INJURED IN BIG BLAST

LUTIE, Okla., Nov. 29.—UP—Rescue workers struggled up from the earth choked passageways of the Hali-Ola Coal company's mine near here late today and reported they found 13 miners were killed and four injured by an explosion which wrecked the pit.

The report was made to officials of the mine company who rushed to the scene.

The explosion believed caused by ignited gas, occurred early in the afternoon while sixty men were working in the slope mine.

Shift Escapes

It caused collapse only of a section known as the Eleventh east entry where 17 men were working. The rest of the shift escaped and joined the rescue operations, working swiftly and reaching the victims about three hours after the accident occurred.

The chamber in which the men were killed was filled with black damp, rescuers reported.

Bodies of the men were brought up slowly and taken to a morgue where they were identified by H. G. Philibbi, auditor of the mining company.

Rescuers At Work

Rescue crews were rushed to the mine, which is situated near here in Laramie county, from McAlester and Pittsburg, towns in the coal mining area. The workers who were uninjured began a descent into the wrecked entry immediately after the explosion which sent a tremor through the earth.

The men worked skillfully in their race toward their fellow miners. Rescue operations were closely organized because of drill in such work which is made a part of the miner's training. It was the third major mine disaster in Oklahoma in a year.

Eastern Man To Head Powder Co.

PINOLE, Nov. 29.—J. B. Johnson of Emporium, Penn., will be the new chief at Hercules Powder plant, announcement from the east stated today.

Johnson is to succeed Carl Bierbaur who passed away recently. The new plant superintendent is now on his way to the west coast and is expected to arrive here in time to assume his duties tomorrow.

Johnson was formerly connected with the plant here, but was transferred to the eastern plant where he was at the time of his appointment. R. K. Smith will continue as assistant superintendent.

Flier Sees Trans Pacific Flight Soon

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 29.—UP—Confidence in the feasibility of spanning the Pacific ocean in a flight from Japan to America was expressed by Harold Gatty when he stepped from the steamship President Madison here today.

Gatty was Pilot Harold Bromley's navigator and radio operator on their unsuccessful attempts to fly from Tokyo to Tacoma last fall. Their last effort ended after they had been in the air several hours and were forced to return to Japan when an exhaust ring broke, flooding the cabin with gas. Gatty was nearly overcome by the fumes, and was in a hospital for several weeks before he was able to return to this country.

"If another attempt can be financed, I shall make another try with Bromley," he declared today, denying that he had had difficulties with the aviator, who returned to this countrfy some time ago.

Gatty planned to go to Los Angeles immediately and join his wife and three children after an absence of several months.

Elks Entertain At Ladies Night

A large number of Elks enjoyed the dance given in lodge clubrooms last night, at which ladies of members were special guests. Gay's Red Peppers furnished music for the event, which was enjivened by the decoration with which the committee draped the dance room.

Committee in charge of the event was: John Huzefka, Alec Robertson, Clarence Johnson, John Harrison, and E. M. Neville.

70 HIGH PUPILS TO GRADUATE

MAIL EARLY IS PLEA OF MILLER

Address all Christmas mail legibly and completely, John A. Miller, Richmond postmaster warned residents last night.

The Christmas rush which is expected to get underway within a few days makes it imperative that this rule be observed for quick and safe delivery, Miller explained.

Be sure that sufficient postage is on the package, and by all means tie the parcels securely, the postmaster admonished.

Other points he referred to were: mark all perishables indicating that fact, insure valuables, mail foreign material at once, and do not put Christmas seals on the front of packages.

Christmas seals are permissable when pasted on the back of letters and packages, but are illegal for use on the front of such articles, Miller explained.

A banner year for Richmond postoffice was predicted by Miller last night as he announced business for the month of November was greatly in excess of the same month last year.

Extra help at the postoffice for the Christmas rush is ready to start work, when a large quantity of mail is expected to be handled.

Sally O'Neil's Kin Faces New Charge

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—UP—Gerald Noonan, brother of Sally O'Neil and Molly O'Day, screen stars, was accused of a second embezzlement today in telegraphic charges from San Antonio, Tex.

Already facing removal to Madison, Wis., on charges of embezzling a woman there out of several hundred dollars, Noonan was rearrested this afternoon when Chief of Poilce Owen W. Kilday of San Antonio, Tex., telegraphed that Noonan was wanted there on charges of embezzling a woman out of $11,000 in a fake oil deal.

According to Kilday's wire, Noonan and three companions assured the woman, Mrs. A. B. Burks of San Antonio, that they would drill for oil and took her money under false pretenses.

Noonan contended that he and his companions actually owned the lease. He was freed on bond to await the outcome of removal.

Army Doctor Will Face Murder Count

KANSAS CITY, Kansas, Nov. 29.—UP—Major Charles A. Shepard, Army surgeon who carries on a struggle against tubercular deaths among service men at Fitzsimmons' Hospital in Denver, will be charged with taking the life of his wife when his trial opens here early next week.

The government will produce testimony tending to prove that the 59 year old physician poisoned his second wife, Zenana, so that he might pursue a love for Miss Grace Brandon, 23, a blond-haired southern girl.

The trial probably will open Tuesday after settling of the federal court docket Monday.

Mrs. Shepard died in June, 1929, at Fort Riley, Kansas, after a lingering illness. Attending physicians proposed an autopsy, the government will contend, and Major Shepard objected.

Then, without the major's knowledge, his wife's viscera was sent to Omaha, Neb., where toxicologists found evidence of "large quantities" of bichloride of mercury, a fatal poison.

SENIOR DAY ON MONDAY

The semi-annual Senior Day at Richmond union high school will be celebrated tomorrow with a senior play in the morning and a senior class banquet and dance in the evening.

The senior class members will arrive at school tomorrow morning attired in costume and will parade through the high school auditorium during a school assembly. The class will then present a comedy skit entitled "The Senior's Dream," which is being directed by Mrs. Aileen Bronsdon and Miss Carroll Frederick. The senior will and testament will be read during the play, and vocal and instrumental music will also be presented by members of the class.

In the evening the senior class will hold its dance and banquet in the high school cafeteria. A program will be presented during the banquet. The program committee is headed by Miss Gertrude Weatherby, and consists of: Jack Carr, chairman, Myrtle Thomas, Woodrow Snodgrass, and Sterling Kitchen.

The decoration committee is under the direction of Mrs. Aileen Bronsdon of the high school faculty. The members of this committee are: Margaret Esola, chairman, Edward Harlow, Martin Crabb, Albert Kukar, Gertrude Richards, Eva Baldi, Marguerite Godman, Lorna Jackson, Virginia Giegoldt, Grace Bagley, Eva Sorenson, Hattie May Smith, Eva Sorenson, Gertrude Boese, Evelyn Costello, Barbara Carrick.

Miss Roberts is directing the serving committee, which includes: Margaret Davies, chairman, Dorothy Barber, Anna Dorgan, Betty Faris, Barbara Lee Guanziroli, Lucille Morrill, Ada Patterson, Lois Shaw, Gertrude Richards, Clementine Toussaint, Doris Hemphill, Viola Allen and Virginia Giegoldt.

Leslie Stanley is acting as chairman of the cleanup committee. The members of this committee are: Elden Vestal, Russell Ralston, Torrey Wuesthoff, Glenn Conn, Frank Barbano, Walter Thomas, Merle Baskett, and John Jacobson.

Dance music will be furnished by a group of Richmond union high school student musicians.

Liabilty Rates On Automobiles Raised

MARTINEZ, Nov. 29. — Public liability insurance rates on automobiles were higher today throughout the entire county, following announcement of an increase made effective by all companies Nov. 24.

The county listed as "country rates" will not pay as much for insurance as drivers in San Francisco bay cities. The $14 rate on four and light six cylindered cars has been increased to $19.

Big sixes and light eights rate has increased from $20 to $25, while the $28 rate for all large cars was raised to $34.

EXERCISES TO BE HELD ON DEC. 10

A comparatively small class of between 60 and 70 pupils will be graduated from Richmond Union high school on the evening of Dec. 10, in the high school auditorium.

The smallness of this December class is not unusual, as the Christmas graduating class has always been much smaller in numbers than that of June.

The commencement speeches for this year will be presented by Walter Thomas and Ernest Peters, who were chosen from a field of graduates. Thomas is president of the senior class and was formerly president of the Richmond Union high school Students association.

His topic for commencement night will be "The Westward March." Ernest Peters, who has also been prominently identified with school social and scholaristic activities, will speak on "The Secret of Spending One's Leisure Time."

Both boys and girls will this year be robed in caps and gowns, thereby making this year's graduation especially colorful.

The lower floor of the high school auditorium will be reserved for parents and friends of the graduates until eight o'clock.

PROBE OPENED IN HI-JACKING

MARTINEZ, Nov. 29.—The hijacking of a truck load of grape juice and shooting of Jerry Metaxes of Crockett early Thanksgiving morning is not the only crime of that nature that has taken place in this vicinity recently, R. A. McNamara deputy sheriff reported today.

While officers continued to search for the four men who took the truck and grape juice cargo from Metaxes and two companions after a race of more than six miles when a score of shots were fired, no trace of the quartet have been found.

From the sheriff's office it was reported instances of hijacking have not been reported because of the fear of those robbed, that they may be persecuted for illegal possession of liquor.

In a recent raid five men posing as deputy sheriffs took 20 gallons of whiskey and 50 gallons of wine from a resident here.

An X-ray of the shoulder of Metaxes failed to reveal any trace of the bullet which wounded him Thursday. J. F. Lawand and George Ryia who were accompanying Metaxes when the hijacking occurred had returned to their homes in Reedley today.

S. O. Employes To Fix Compensation

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Standard Oil company of New York employes will have an opportunity to fix compensation and working conditions in their concern, it was reported here today.

The present plan extends only to the marketing department, but it may go to the refinery and other divisions at a later date, it was announced.

W. S. C. DEFEATS VILLANOVA 13 TO 0

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29.—UP—Washington States strong football eleven, undefeated and untied in the 1930 football season, beat Villanova 13 to 0 in an intersectional game on this wind-swept wintry gridiron front here today.

Villanova never had a chance against the rugged Pacific coast combination. Virtually all of the play took place in Villanova territory.

Pass Play Fail's

The much vaunted Villanova passing combination made up of Captain Biff Gardner and McLaughlin failed to live up to expectations.

The Washington State offense was built around Tonkin, quarterback, Ellisen, left half back and Schwartz, rugged fullback. These lads were able to spin off the ends, through tackle, especially at the right side of the line, and to complete forward passes frequently.

The first Washington State score came near the end of the first period. Schwartz broke thru the center of the line to gain seven yards and a touchdown in two plays.

Lainhart Scores

Washington State did not score again until the fourth period when Lainhart broke through the line for a 13-yard gain and a touchdown. Maskell made the first goal after the touchdown but missed the second.

Villanova made but one earned first down. Washington State made 14. Villanova had a net gain from scrimmage of 44 yards to 228 yards for Washington State.

Villanova attempted 20 passes, 13 of which were incomplete, five intercepted and two complete for a total gain of nine yards.

Washington State attempted 13 passes, 11 of which were incomplete and one intercepted, and one complete for ten yards gain. Villanova lost 35 yards by penalty and Washington State 38.

Villanova made 13 punts for average distance of 48 yards. Washington State made ten punts for an average of 44 yards.

Washington State had been favored by approximately 3 to 1 in the pre-game betting.

Cougars Name Troublesome Coast Players

PULLMAN, Wash., Nov. 29.—UP—While Washington State's college's Cougars were upholding their season's record by defeating Villanova, in Philadelphia today, members of the athletic department announced a list of Pacific Coast conference palyers named by the Cougars as the men who gave them the most trouble this season.

Arbelbide, Southern California end was almost unanimously named as the most troublesome player in the conference, so far as W. S. C. was concerned. He threw ball carriers for losses or chased them out of bounds, prevented returns on punts and generally made himself disagreeable in that early season contest which the Cougars won, 7 to 6.

McKalip, Oregon State end, and Baker, Southern California guard were the next most bothersome players the Cougars faced.

Schwaegler, Washington and Hall, U. S. C. were the best tackles, and Baker, U. S. C. and Beckett, California, the best guards to face Washington State during the season. Wentworth, Washington, ranked far above any center.

Mohler, U. S. C., nosed out his teammate, Duffield, for the quarterback post, 12 to 11.

Honors for halfback luminaries resulted in Buerke, Oregon State quarterback, and Pinckert, U. S. C., nosing out Schaldach, California; Hufford, Washington and Duffield, U. S. C.

Gill, California was rated slightly ahead of Musick, U. S. C., and Little, Oregon State, as the best fullback who played against the Cougars.

Shortridge to Ask Filipinos be Barred

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—UP—Total exclusion of Filipino immigration will be urged at the short session of congress, Senator Shortridge, Republican, California, said here today.

"In the first place, we do not need them, in view of the unemployment situation," said Shortridge, "and, in the second place, they should be placed in the same category as Asiatics."

GERMAN FLEET NOW ASH TRAYS

ROTHESAY, Scotland, Nov. 28.—UP—The ash trays into which England's statesmen flick their ashes as they discuss world peace, probably were once parts of a German battleship.

The steel girders supporting the palatial cinemas which are springing up, probably were once part of the decks of a German man-o'-war.

That is all that remains of the German fleet, which was scuttled at Scapa Flow 11 years ago, and of which 30 vessels have been salvaged and broken up.

The Hindenburg, the last ship of the fleet capable of being raised, is being broken up now at the Admiralty dockyards here. Its girders are being sold for cinemas, its brass fittings for conversion into ash trays and match boxes...

Little did Rear Admiral von Reuter and his officers think on that day in June, 1919, when ship after ship sank, that such an end was in store for them.

On June 21, 1919, the German fleet, some 74 vessels, swung at anchor in Scapa Flow. They had been there ever since they had surrendered to Sir David Beatty, off the Firth of Forth in November, 1918.

"Caretaker" crews were on board and their maintenance was left entirely with the Germans. The British fleet stood guard over them.

The first intimation of anything wrong was when the crew of the Friedrich der Grosse, von Reuter's flagship, threw their baggage into small boats and rowed away. They were ordered back, but they had thrown away their oars and declared they were helpless. Almost at that moment the Friedrich der Grosse heeled slowly to starboard and disappeared.

By this time the other crews were leaving their vessels. In a short while nearly all the 74 German ships had sunk. Von Reuter and his 1,600 men were placed under arrest, and taken to prison camps in England.

It is estimated 500,000 tons of shipping, worth about $291,000,000 was scuttled that day.

U. C. L. A, Eleven Wins First Game Of Conference

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29.—UP—The University of California at Los Angeles football team won its first Pacific Coast conference victory of the season by dispatching the Vandals from the University of Idaho 20 to 6 in the Coliseum here today.

The game was close despite the rather top heavy score and several times the Vandals threatened to cross the UCLA goal only to miss by slim margins.

The first quarter was scoreless but the Bruins scored a touchdown and converted and the Vandals made six points on a touchdown in the second quarter to end the half 7 to 6.

Forester paved the way for the first Bruin score by running back 13 yards to make the touchdown which Duncan converted with a place kick.

Spaughy led to Idaho's score when he recovered a U. C. L. A. fumble on the locals 18-yard line. Sensing their opportunity the Vanda's sent Wilkie, fullback, over the line on a series of line plays. Hanford failed to convert.

The Bruins scored in the third quarter when Goodstein blocked an Idaho punt and McMillian fell on the ball back of the goal. Duncan converted.

The final Bruin counter came in a late passing attack which ended when Wellendorf took a throw from Decker and crossed the goal.

WOODMEN WILL MEET FIREMEN NINE TODAY

The First Street diamond will this afternoon if it doesn't rain, be the scene of a baseball classic when the Richmond Modern Woodmen of America tangle with the Oakland Firemen in an Inter-county Winter league contest.

The Woodmen still have an unstained record for the present season and may be reckoned upon to give the visiting Firemen a battle royal in defense of that record.

The chucking for the Woodmen will be done today by Sid Martin, with Moitoza behind the plate.

The contest is scheduled to begin at 2 o'clock on the First street field.

Boy Flier Hunts Abandoned Plane

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 29.—UP—Flying with Doug Kelly, one of his former instructors, Gerald Nettleton, youthful Toledo aviator, took off from Lindbergh Field early today to search for the plane he abandoned 10,000 feet over Pine valley Sunday.

Nettleton, en route to San Diego, on an attemp to establish a new junior transcontinental speed record, became lost in a storm over the mountains Sunday and took to his parachute when the controls of his plane began to freeze.

No attempt was made to look for the ship yesterday because of the storm conditions in the mountains.

LOCAL CAGERS WILL MEET VISITORS

Richmond basketball fans will see two of the most powerful cage squads of the county go into action Tuesday night when the McRacken Clothiers and the Oleum squad meet on the Roosevelt floor.

The McRacken boys are among the leading contenders for the Richmond City League title, and are noted for their tricky offensive and accurate mid-floor shooting. The Oleum boys have also been playing good basketball in games with several county squads and may be reckoned upon to make things hot for the McRacken outfit.

An extra feature of Tuesday night's basketball program will be a girls' game between Oleum and a local girls' team not yet announced. The girls' game will be played at 7:30 o'clock, while the principal event will follow at 8:30.

The McRacken lineup will Tuesday night include: Barbieri, Gillan, Hall, Lee, McLaughlin, Milicevich, Flynn and Huzefka.

Soccer Club To Play At Martinez Today

A strong Richmond soccer squad will travel to Martinez today to give battle to the Shell Oil eleven of Martinez in a game postponed from Nov. 16 because of rainy weather.

The Richmond team will possess a strong lineup this afternoon consisting of Jester, goal; Blair and Sherrat, fullbacks; Baker, Blair and Long, halfbacks; Grice, Ehlert, Pryde, Moscron and Brock, forwards; Hood and Williams, reserves.

The game will be played on the Alhambra high school field in Martinez at 2:30 o'clock. The local athletes will meet at Longfellow junior high school at 12:30 to receive transportation to the scene of the game.

Odd Fellows Nine To Meet Rodeo Team

The Richmond Odd Fellows will travel to Rodeo today to take on the Rodeo nine in an Inter-county Winter baseball league clash.

The chucking job will be performed for the lodgemen by Carl Kamb, a veteran of Eastbay mounds while Bill Gualdoni, another veteran, will be behind the platter for the linkers.

The Odd Fellows have been batting away this season in fine style, although they are not at the top of the league. They are good hitters, good fielders, were titlists of this year's Richmond City league, and they are expected to be able to subdue the fast Rodeo outfit this afternoon at Rodeo. In any case, a hard battle will almost certainly be the order of the day, for both teams are noted for their fast style of play.

35,000 Witness Holy Cross Beat Boston 7 To 0

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—UP—Holy Cross scored its first victory in six years over Boston College its traditional rival here today, winning 7 to 0, before 35,000 fans.

A blocked punt in the second period gave Holy Cross its touchdown. Boston College had just taken the ball from Holy Cross 12-yards outside the home team's goal line when the break came.

Downes, Boston College center, passed high to Colbert who stood about a yard outside his goal line intending to punt. By the time Colbert brought the ball down to kicking position several Holy Cross forwards surrounded him but he elected to boot, thought it was only second down.

The kick was blocked and rolled over the goal line, where Zyntell, Holy Cross guard, fell on the ball to give his team six points. Griffin added the extra point by placement.

DETROIT.—Its an old family custom, so Elmer H. Favor will marry Elsie Boes here soon. His brothers, Alvin and Clarence, are already married to Elsie's sisters, Catherine and Regina. They will all live next door to each other.

Grid Heroes

MORTON, DARTMOUTH star quarterback, and below, Capt. Andres of the Green Wave and Head Coach Jackson Cannell. The two stars shown here played a big part in the Dartmouth-Stanford game yesterday.

Stanford Defeats Dartmouth 14 to 7

PALO ALTO, Nov. 29.—UP—The east made its greatest bid in eight years for a football victory over the far west here today, but failed in the end when Stanford marched 60 yards for a touchdown in the last ten minutes of a bitterly fought battle to score a 14 to 7 triumph over the invading Dartmouth eleven.

With the score tied, 7 to 7, and 10 minutes left to play in the final period, Guido Caglieri, Stanford's Italian halfback from San Francisco, slipped off Dartmouth's right tackle, slanted across the field and crossed the invaders' goal line for the winning touchdown, after a run of 17 yards.

That sudden, spectacular dash by Caglieri broke up a thrilling intersectional duel which kept the crowd of 50,000 in suspense until the very last minute of play.

Makes Effort

Trailing by a touchdown, Dartmouth still had one final desperate effort left. With two minutes left to play, Dartmouth's stouthearted team started a drive that carried deep into Stanford territory and was not halted until Phil Moffatt, the westerners' great halfback, pulled down a Dartmouth forward pass on his own five yard line.

Bill Morton Darthmouth quarterback, who was one of the greatest players on the field, took a kick from Rothert and brought it back 18 yards to Stanford's 48-yard line to start the easterners final march in the fading moments of the struggle.

Up to this point, Dartmouth had attempted 12 passes without success, but Morton dropped back and threw a 33 yard pass to Shep Wolff, who caught the ball just inside the field on Stanford 15-yard line.

Another Pass

Again Dartmouth attempted a pass, but Moffatt snatched the ball out of the clutches of a Dartmouth player, standing a bare three yards away from the Stanford goal line.

It was Dartmouth's first defeat of the season, having won all its previous games except a scoreless tie with Yale. By winning, Stanford maintained unbroken a string of intersectional successes over eastern teams during the past three years, having beaten Army in 1928 and again last year.

The better team won, but Dartmouth's gallant stand in the face of a bruising Stanford assault kept the western team at bay until the final period. Dartmouth had only two real chances to score, and the easterners made one of them good.

Cards Stopped

Stanford, however, was stopped several times when the white-sweatered westerners appeared well on their way to a touchdown.

Stanford gained 257 yards from scrimmage to Dartmouth's 116. Stanford made 16 first downs, and Dartmouth 11. One of the big surprises of the game was the failure of either team to make successful use of the forward pass. Stanford attempted 14 passes, and completed on'y one, for a gain of 15 yards, with three intercepted. Dartmouth attempted 15 passes, completed two for a total of 38 yards and had four intercepted.

After a scoreless first period, in which Dartmouth halted a Stanford drive on its own 17-yard line, the western eleven scored the first touchdown early in the second period.

Cards Score

Stanford got the ball on its own 45-yard line after an exchange of punts, and then in eight plays covered 55 yards for a touchdown.

Phil Moffatt gained 4 yards and then Dartmouth drew a 5-yard penalty. Harlow Rothert, Stanford's big 197-pound fullback, smashed through for five yards and then Moffatt ripped off five more, making first down on Dartmouth's 39-yard line. Ernie Caddel, Stanford sophomore halfback, broke away for 19 yards, going to the 20-yard line. Three plays with Moffatt gaining eight yards in two attempts, and Hillman, one, carried the ball to Dartmouth's 11-yard line.

Rothert took the ball on the next play, smashed through the left side of Dartmouth's line. His terrific momentum bowled over a pair of Dartmouth men in his path and he stumbled on the five yard line but kept moving ahead until he fell over the goal line for a tochdown. Moffatt place-kicked goal and Stanford was in the van, 7 to 0.

Outplayed Dartmouth

Stanford continued to outplay Dartmouth until the second period was drawing to a close. With four minutes to play in the first half, Johnson, substitute Dartmouth fullback, intercepted an attempted pass by Rothert and ran 20 yards to Stanford's 20-yard line before he was finally brought down.

In six plays Dartmouth tied the score. Morton slashed through center for 11 yards on the first play. A reverse, Morton to Wolff, failed to gain, but Morton again got thru center, this time for six yards, placing the ball on Stanford's five yard line. Morton gained 2 yards and then the next play failed to gain.

At this untimely moment, Stanford sent Albertson into the game to replace Taylor at center, and Stanford was penalized to its one-yard line for excessive time but, giving Dartmouth a first down. Morton gained only inches in a drive at center, but on the succeeding play, dived over Stanford's left tackle for a touchdown. Wolff place-kicked goal, tying the score, 7 to 7.

IRISH DEFEAT CADETS BY 7-6 SCORE

SOLDIER FIELD, Chicago, Nov. 29.—UP—One perfect play late in the final period gave Notre Dame's great football team a 7 to 6 victory over Army's previously undefeated eleven today and enabled the Irish to continue their march toward a second successive national championship.

Marchy Schwartz, fleet halfback was the star of the victory, scoring his team's only touchdown on a 55-yard run, but Marchy was forced to share honors with Frank Carideo, all-American quarterback, whose perfect goal kick provided the winning point.

100,000 See Game

The bitterly fought contest was played before more than 100,000 spectators who sat in rain drenched stands and watched the players slip and slide over the deposits of ice, sand and slush that filled the floor of the big stadium.

With the minutes rapidly clicking away and a scoreless tie imminent, Schwartz repeated the feat that won last week's game with Northwestern.

After a cleverly executed series of plays had drawn Army's left tackle out of position, Notre Dame called the same play on which Schwartz scored against Northwestern, and the speedy halfback cut off his own right tackle, dodged through the Army's second defense and dashed 55 yards for the first score of the game. Carideo kicked goal, and Notre Dame fans settled back, content and happy despite the terrible weather.

Punt Blocked

Army still had plenty of fight and came back battling for victory. After kicking to Notre Dame, the Cadets line held for two plays on the Notre Dame 15-yard line and then Miller, Army center, broke through to block Carideo's punt.

Dick King, substitute end, went through the line and fell on the ball behind Notre Dame's goal for a touchdown.

Broshus, Army drop-kicking expert, was sent into the game in an attempt to tie the score, but Notre Dame's line was keyed to make up for the failure that had cost six points and broke through in a solid wall to block the attempt.

There was less than two minutes to play and Carideo wisely elected to receive. He took no chances of losing the ball, taking it himself on every play and keeping it until the final gun.

The game added another chapter to the 18-year series between the two schools and provided the huge crowd with a thrilling finish for an otherwise drab contest.

Colored Nine Meets Y. M. I. Team Today

The newcomers were welcomed here by Mrs. Joseph Dunn, mother of Mrs. Castledine and Dr. J. Dunn of Berkeley, along with members of the local church board and members of the church.

Rev. Castledine will conduct his first service today.

A reception will be given in his honor on Dec. 15.

C. E. To Hold Meeting Tonight

Christian Endeavorers of First Presbyterian church will meet at six o'clock tonight instead of the regular hour of 6:30, announcement said last night. Special refreshments will be served at that time.

Experiences of the Rev. Alexander Waite encountered as a missionary in China will be recounted during the missionary service to be conducted by Marjorie Alexander.

"Our Responsibility to Spread the Gospel" will be the meeting topic. Mrs. R. J. P. Harmon will sing special solos.

Christian Science Lesson Subject

"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, aluas Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon today in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ Scientist in Boston, Mass.

The citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon will include the following from the Bible: "Let us walk honestly, as in the day; not in rioting and drunkenness, not in chambering and wantonness, not in strife and envying. But put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ, and make not provision for the flesh, to fulfil the lustes thereof"—Rom. 13:13, 14.

The Lesson-Sermon also will include the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The temperance reform, felt all over our land, results from metaphysical healing, which puts down every tree that brings not forth good fruit. This conviction, that there is no real pleasure in sin, is one of the most important points in the theology of Christian Science. Arouse the sinner to this new and true view of sin, show him that sin confers no pleasure, and this knowledge strengthens his moral courage and increases his ability to master evil and to love good." (p. 404).

Missionary Will Speak At Church

At the services for the First Presbyterian church tonight, Miss Esther McRuer, of New York, field representative of the Board of National Missions, will be the speaker.

Miss McRuer's talk will be of special interest for the young people of the church.

HELENE WILL GO INTO EXILE

BUCHAREST, Roumania, Nov. 29.—UP—One of the tragic figures of Balkan royalty, Princess Helene of Roumania, appeared tonight to be on her way to voluntary exile.

Through various channels which appeared official, it was known hopes of a reconciliation between Princess Helene and her divorced husband, King Caro, had been abandoned.

The princess, whose son, Crown Prince Michael, was taken from her care, will leave Roumania before Christmas for a foreign country, possibly France. It was said that her stay abroad would be indefinite, although she will return from time to time for brief visits.

Goes In Exile

Thus it was expected that Princess Helene, who came from the now shattered royal house of Greece to be the bride of Prince Carol and later lost him to the red haired daughter of a Bucharest junk dealer, would carry out her resolution never to be reconciled with her husband—even if it cost her the crown of Roumania and the companionship of her son.

Ironically, it was believed Princess Helene would establish residence in France, the land in which Carol spent his years of exile with Mme. Lupescu, and from which he flew by airplane to seize the throne from his son by a bloodless coup. Upon his return he made many attempts toward a reconciliation with Princess Helene, who had divorced him during his absence, even going so far as to indicate she automatically became queen upon his return.

To Leave Soon

When these efforts failed, Prince Michael was taken from her care and placed in a military school over the protests of the princess. This morning the newspaper Universul carried an interview with Constantine Argeloinau, former minister of agriculture. Argeloinau said the divorce was final and unalterable.

Immediately afterward it was made known that the princess would depart before Christmas. The developments lent some credence to many recent rumors that Carol has been contemplating another marriage, but there was no authoritative confirmation of such a plan.

Government sources, however, made vigorous denials of many reports that Mme. Lupescu had returned here from Paris and was established in the royal palace.

Princess Helene who has not been particularly friendly with Dowager Queen Marie, mother of the king, is the sister of the former King George of Greece, who married Princess Elizabeth of Roumania.

Special Rites At Church Here

The final meeting of the Mission study classes of the Stege Presbyterian church will be held tonight. The fellowship hour will start at 6 o'clock. Cake and chocolate will be served. At 6:30 the discussion classes will be held.

A special surprise service will be held at 7 o'clock, to which all members and friends of the church have been invited.

Y. P. F. Will Hold Holy Communion

All members of the Young People's Fellowship of the St. Edmund's church have been requested to turn out for Holy Communion and a reception breakfast this morning at 7 o'clock.

Rev. Castledine, the new vicar, will be welcomed.

HOLIDAY WILL BE SHOWN AT FOX MONDAY

What is the holiday time of life? The calm ear of advanced years when one's battle for success has ended, or the zestful time of youth, with its greater capacity for enjoyment?

Phillip Barry, playwright, declares himself in favor of the early years of manhood or womanhood, when one's mind is keenly tuned to receive the most from every impression. A holiday then, declares Barry, is not only a time of play, but an opportunity for mediation and observation which will enable the individual to become acquainted with himself and to determine how to utilize his future to the greatest possible advantage. It was to point this theory that Barry wrote "Holiday," the sensational stage success of last season.

Edward H. Griffith, director of "Holiday," a Pathe picture coming to the Fox-California Theater tomorrow agrees with Barry.

"I believe, with Barry, that holiday time in youth is really an effort to find oneself and learn what one wants most to do for the remainder of his lifetime," declares Griffith. "I am thoroughly in sympathy with the leading masculine character in the play, who worked hard to make his pile while still in his twenties, and then set off to enjoy his holiday for a time."

Robert Ames plays this revolutionary young man in the screen version of "Holiday," which features Ann Harding in the leading feminine role. Other popular players appearing in the cast include Mary Astor, Edward Everett Horton, Hedda Hopper, Hallam Cooley, Monroe Owsley, William Holden, Creighton Hale and Mabel Forrest.

TOWN BUILT ON MINES BRINGS SURPRISE

TONOPAH, Nev. Nov. 29.—UP—Tourists passing through Tonopah on their way to the coast are surprised when told that the town is built upon the surface of mines; that the entire area rests upon the underground workings of mines some at a depth of over 2000 feet—mines that have produced approximately $160,000,000 in gold and silver since their discovery in 1900.

Even at the present low price of silver, due to the heavy gold content of the ores Tonopah mines still produce around $100,000 a month.

Tonopah was founded in 1900 by Jim Butler, an early-day pioneer. On one of his prospecting trips Butler camped near the site at Tonopah. During the night one of his burros wandered away. Butler located his recalcitrant burro upon the side of Mt. Oddie, named for Tasker L. Oddie present U. S. senator from Nevada.

While rounding up his burro, Butler noted some outcroppings that looked good. He selected a number of samples, some of them very rich and returned to Austin to have them assayed. Butler was broke, and the financial condition of his friend Oddie was not much better. Oddie, however, rustled the few dollars necessary to pay the assayer, and thus secured an interest in Butler's find, and which returned to him a fortune.

Butler's discovery became the famous Mizpah mine, which made fortunes for a score or more of lessees before it became the property of a group of Philadelphia capitalists who organized the Tonopah Mining company. The Mizpah has always been a good producer, and is now being successfully operated under the leasing system.

It is a common remark that during its 30 years' existence Tonopah mines have never failed to pour forth wealth from their underground treasure vaults.

A WANT AD IN THE RECORD-HERALD WILL DO THE WORK

TRAFFIC MEN WILL MEET IN PORTLAND

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 29.—UP—From many corners of the west will come traffic experts and others interested in transportation to attend the Regional Traffic and Aviation conference, which will be held in Portland Dec. 5 and 6.

The meeting, one of six similar conferences being held over the country this winter, will be a forerunner of the mid-winter meeting of the western division of the National Chamber of Commerce, to be held here December 8 and 9.

Delegations will be present at the traffic and aviation conference from Oregon, Washington, California, Idaho, Utah, Nevada and Arizona.

Coming up for consideration will be the application of proposals for traffic relief by the Third National Conference on Street and Highway Safety, which convened in Washington last May under the chairmanship of Secy. of Commerce Lamont. The program for uniformity of state traffic laws and municipal traffic ordinances, as well as railroad grade crossing safety measures and development of adequate traffic facilities, will be discussed.

Licensing of motor vehicle drivers, with mandatory examinations to determine fitness to handle a vehicle, also will be considered.

Aviation questions to be discussed at the conference will include the experience of commercial organizations in development and management of airports, uniform state and municipal air laws and regulations and the trend of aeronautical development with relation to the states and cities in this region.

Reservations coming to the Portland Chamber of Commerce indicate that approximately 1000 delegates will register for the western division conference of the chamber of commerce, Dec. 8 to 9, Chambers in 11 states, Hawaii and Alaska will have delegates.

Col. W. B. Greeley, manager of the West Coast Lumbermen's association of Seattle, and former chief forester of the United States, will be one of the main speakers. He plans to outline some of the major economic problems of the lumber industry in western Oregon and Washington particularly the problem of carrying 40 years' supply of raw material on the tax rolls, the excessive productive capacity which has been created and the industrial necessity for a better adjustment of current production to market requirements.

Wilkins Tells Of Plans To Explore North

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—UP—Sir Hubert Wilkins, the explorer now lecturing in California, will be real headline material the next time he visits the golden state.

When that next time comes he will have arrived by way of a 21000-mile submarine voyage under the ice crust of the northern world. Sailing from Philadelphia, Sir Hubert's underseas craft will begin the first under-ice odyssey in history at Spitzenbergen and will emerge in the Bering sea.

"The submarine will be ready in two weeks," he said, "and we will begin giving tests in the north Atlantic. Everything should be ready by April. Then we start, and come out in the Bering sea."

You see? Very simple. You start. You finish.

"We will travel very slowly—not much faster than a walk—taking constant observations. We will stop for eight hours a day to work them up. We will make records of the specific gravity of the earth, the nature of the water, the ice formation, such specimens as we see of Arctic undersea life, everything we can find.

"The submarine will carry 18 men. Most of them have been on her before. Yes, it will be equipped with ice drills, so that we can occasionally come up for fresh air.

"No, I've never been under ice. That is, not in a submarine. Once I fell in."

Sir Hubert said he expected his sub-ice ship to cruise at a depth of 15 to 18 feet, but that it might have to make a maximum of 50 feet.

He looks little like the man who is living the dreams of Jules Verne. His white skin seems that of an indoor man rather than that of a person who had flown and tramped the polar wilderness.

NO EXCUSE FOR A "SPLITTING HEAD"

There's no need for an aching head to spoil your day. At the first warning throb take Dillard's Aspergum. Chew it a few minutes. Almost before you realize it, you have chewed the pain away. It's as simple as that—no trouble, and harmless—for Dillard's Aspergum is the new and easier way to take aspitin.

Dillard's Aspergum is the finest aspirin in delicious chewing gum form. You can take it any time—any place. You need no water to gulp it down. There is no unpleasant taste—no choking.

Many States To Adopt Uniform Traffic Code

Approximately 800 towns and cities in the United States have adopted the model municipal traffic ordinance since its preparation by the national conference on street and highway safety a few years ago.

Three states, New Jersey, New York and Wisconsin, have written its provisions into their state laws, with the effect of providing uniformity in municipal traffic regulations by state enactment.

While intensive efforts are constantly being made toward further adoption of this measure, conflicting rules are still to be found in driving through towns and cities on long trips.

Complex systems of signals, complicated rules and hasty attempts at control are still in operation in many communities and often control are still in operation in many communities and often contrary in application and effect to the regulations employed in nearby towns and cities.

This situation is especially true in eastern sections, it is said. A perusal of local ordinances in effect on the route between the states of Washington and New York, for instance, has revealed that the Washington driver would incur the danger of arrest, fine and imprisonment 289 times if he adhered to his home city's traffic rules thruout his journey. In addition, he would meet the hazard of accident, injury and possible death.

EYES OF WORLD NOW SHOWING AT FOX

Beautiful romance, powerful drama and natural scenic effects have been combined in an unusually entertaining motion picture by Henry King whose "Eyes of the World," an Inspiration-United Artists picture, which opens today at the Fox-California theater with Una Merkel, John Holland, Nance O'Neil and Brandon Hurst in the featured cast.

In this worthy dramatization of the popular book by Harold Bell Wright, Director King has achieved an out-door romance that compares favorably with his classical "Tolable David," and "The Winning of Barbara Worth."

The story is placed in the mountain country of California and unfolds the romance of a simple maiden of the hills who meets and falls in love with a young artist from the cities.

Their tender adventure is rudely disturbed through the scheming of an unscrupulous, love-starved matron who desires the companionship of the artist.

The story moves quickly through an amazing pattern-work of thrilling and dramatic scenes, rising to a crescendo of exciting action when revenge, remorse and forgiveness each have their moments of triumph.

"Eyes of the World" is an exceptional work of entertainment, with an easily understandable plot that comes to a satisfying and logical conclusion.

Also on the program is Knute Rockne "Two Minutes To Go" and "Lone Defender."

Bee Man Boasts Honey Championship

ST. EDWARDS, Neb., Nov. 29—UP—Elmer Kennedy, of near here, is reputed to be Nebraska's greatest honey producer. Kennedy began commercial production of honey 15 years ago and now has 800 colonies of bees, split into several yards scattered along the Beaver valley. The production of his hives averages more than 100,000 pounds yearly.

Cow Rescues Fire Department

METHUEN, Mass. Nov. 29.—UP—A cow-rescuing outfit has been added to the equipment of the local fire department. It includes, among other things, an improvised derrick. The unusual equipment was obtained because of the large number of calls from farmers whose cows had fallen into wells.

VET FAMILIES FOUND IN WANT

More than fifty percent of the families of the war veterans undergoing treatment at the Livermore Veterans' hospital are in actual want, according to Walter H. Eliassen, chairman of the 1930 Livermore Veterans' Hospital Christmas committee which for the past six years has undertaken to provide Christmas cheer and useful gifts to the veterans and their families at the Yuletide.

"We have completed a survey of the needs of the patients and of their wives and children and find many of the latter in actual want. O the 300 patients at the hospital 200 have amilies. Of this number 50 percent are in actual want."

Eliassen points out that in former years many a patient's wife was able to obtain employment to help support themselves and their families but this year many have been unable to do so.

Clothing, hats, shoes, sox, shirts dresses, warm underwear, sweaters coats are most needed. Each patient is asked to name the gift or gifts he desires and everyone thinks first of his family or his buddy at the hospital. Clothing is purchased at extremely low prices but the need is so great that the committee announces that more money than ever before is needed this year.

Organizations are asked to send in their contributions to J. Carthwaite treasurer, and mail to Room 5, 1307 Harrison street, on or before Dec. 1, if possible.

Miss Irma Anderson, director of the Red Cross at the Livermore Veterans' hospital, is acting as advance agent of Santa Claus and taking the 'Christmas orders' from the patients."

DO-X Damaged By Big Blaze

LISBON, Portugal, Nov. 29.—UP The proposed trans-atlantic flight of the huge German flying boat, Dornier DO-X was definitely interrupted today when the ship caught fire in the Tagus river where it was anchored.

The plane was damaged badly and it probably will be some time before it can be put in commission again. The prospect of any ocean flight this winter seemed remote.

The fire was attributed to a short circuit. The entire left wing, about seven feet long, was burned down to the bare metal framework, the duraluminum covering being completely destroyed.

Men from the Portuguese naval aviation center, off which the DO-X was anchored, got the fire under control. It was announced that the DO-X would remain at anchorage until repairs are completed.

Woman Is Robbed; Escort Wounded

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—UP—Pedestrians at one of the busiest parts of the loop were thrown into a panic today when a bandit held up Genevieve Saunders, restaurant cashier, and shot her escort, a bank messenger.

The bandit seized a wallet containing $3500 from Miss Saunders as she and Holger Back, messenger for the Foreman Trust & Savings bank, passed an alley. When the bandit fled, Back gave chase. The bandit shot Back twice. He is in a serious condition.

State Solons Highest Paid In Nation

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—UP—California legislators are among the highest paid in the United States. They receive $1200 a year.

Arizona pays its 80 senators and representatives $15 a day, it being possible for each to earn $900 during the session.

A survey of other states showed six commonwealths paid law-givers $10 a day. Two other states—Oregon and Michigan—pay $3 a day. In Oregon no expense money and no mileage money is allowed.

Colorado pays $1000 for two years, as compared to $2500 annually in New York and $150 a session in Connecticut.

Among the $10-a-day states are Deleware, Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana, Montana and Nevada.

Five - dollar - a - day commonwealths include Idaho, Maryland, Missouri, New Mexico, North Dakota, Rhode Island, South Dakota and Texas.

States paying less than $5 are Alabama, $4 salary and $4 expenses; Michigan, $3; Oregon, $3 and Utah, $4.

In other states the rates are: Arkansas, $500 a year; Florida, $6 a day; Georgia, $7 a day; Illinois, $1500 a year; Indiana, $10 a day; Iowa, $1000 a session; Maine, $600 a session; Massachusetts, $2000 a year; Minnesota, $900 a year; Mississippi, $1000 a session; Nebraska, $400 a year; New Hampshire, $100 a year; New Jersey, $500 a year; North Carolina, $600 a session; Ohio, $1000 a year; Oklahoma, $6 a day; Pennsylvania, $1500 a year; South Carolina, $400 a year; Tennessee, $4 a day; Vermont, $400 a session; Virginia, $720 for 60 days, $360 for special session; West Virginia, $500 a year; Wisconsin, $500 a session, and Wyoming, $12 a day.

Hope Abandoned For Missing Woman Flier

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 29—UP—Hope all but vanished Saturday for Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, pretty Australian aviatrix, missing since shortly after 9 a. m., Friday, when she ventured northwestward on an ordinary two hour flight from Havana to Miami, on the first leg of a return solo flight to Pittsburgh, Pa.

Twenty-four hours of search over windswept waters between here and Cuba failed to reveal even a trace of her low-winged "Bullet" monoplane, which by 3:30 p. m., yesterday must have exhausted its six hour gasoline supply. The "Bullet" was not equipped with radio and carried nothing in the way of navigation instruments.

Strong headwinds which enabled establishment of a new swift passage of the Miami to Havana route by transport planes, were believed in the most optimistic circles to have driven her far off her course, probably into the sea. A frail, collapsible rubber boat was her only safeguard.

Planes in Search

In a final effort, planes of the Curtiss flying service this afternoon were sent off on a flight to Tortugas island, southwest of the Florida Keys. Winds were reported exceptionally strong in that region.

Aviation officials expressed the belief that the winds drove Mrs. Keith-Miller out over the Gulf of Mexico or across to the Florida west coast. They stressed the fact she was reported to have set a straight course direct from Havana to Miami, without allowing for wind drift.

If her plane was forced down, Miami aviators said, it was improbable it could have stayed afloat under conditions which prevailed Friday.

No Word

A roll call of aviation, railway and steamship company offices revealed no word of the missing woman's fate. The Tropical Radio company continued to advise boats at sea to keep a sharp look-out. Several ships have made the Cuba-Florida passage since Mrs. Keith-Miller vanished.

Carl Voelter, Miami manager of Curtiss service, led a searching party, reported flying south of here to Long Key, then westward, covering in all about 250 miles. In that territory, Voelter said his planes encountered "terrifically high winds" but little sea. He felt the pilot might have survived if her craft had not sunk.

Because of the broken nature of the south Florida coast, it was considered barely possible the missing woman might have effected a landing on an isolated key. With a negligible supply of food, it was admitted generally her plight even under such conditions would be grave by now.

Flying Three Years

Mrs. Keith-Miller had been flying for about three years. She is the daughter of an Australian banker of Broken Hills, Australia, and became famous internationally in 1927 by flying with Captain N. W. Lancaster, her technical adviser and business partner, from England to Australia.

Two years ago, Mrs. Keith-Miller captured the speed race for women pilots at the Cleveland air races and during the same year placed in the money in the annual Ford reliability tour. She recently established an east-west trans-continental record for women, 25 hours, 43 minutes and a west-east time of 21 hours, 47 minutes.

School Teacher Feared Murdered

FORT MORGAN, Nov. 29.—UP—Investigating authorities feared tonight that Enid Marriott, missing Wiggins schoolteacher, had been killed by kidnappers who then had burned her body in a hotel furnace.

Miss Marriott vanished completely two weeks ago tomorrow night after stepping from a train at Wiggins upon her return from a week-end visit with friends in Denver. With 48-hours a terrific blizzard swept Morgan county, entirely obscuring tell-tale traces of the route followed by her abductors.

Snowdrifts blocked the roads, hampering search for her. Creeks, lakes and reservoirs froze solidly. Then came warm, Chinook winds melting down the drifts and ice, and revealing evidences of her struggle with her captors.

Bag Found

Miss Marriott's week-end bag, containing examination papers of her pupils which she graded on the train, a button from her coat, another from her dress, a box of face powder, her nail file, and other effects were found Thursday and Friday scattered along Bijou creek and the road leading from Wiggins to Fort Morgan.

Scores of volunteers joined the hunt. They chopped away the ice of Bijou creek hoping to locate Miss Marriott's body. Airplanes soared above the lakes and reservoirs, observers hoping to spot the body from the air. Not a trace was found.

Meantime, came word from Eads today that the ashes found in the furnace of a hotel there were the ashes of human bones. Sheriff Walter Mayne believed they were those of Miss Marriott, and he asked for the woman's dental record while he searched for dental gold in the furnace.

Strange Man

Sheriff Mayne said a strange man engaged a basement room at the hotel last Wednesday night, obtaining the room next to the furnace. Early Thursday morning, the man departed, abandoning a large suitcase, the lining of which was stained with blood.

From Lamesa, Texas, came an inquiry from A. N. Bennett, deputy sheriff, about the reward for Miss Marriott. Bennett claimed he had a clue but that publicitty would jeopardize its value.

Numerous clues that Miss Marriott eloped have been run down and discarded. Sheriff Rufus A. Johnston is convinced she was kidnapped and slain because of the evidences of her struggle on the Wiggins-Fort Morgan road, and for other reasons, including the fact that she did not collect $117 salary due her at the time of her disappearance.

No Traces

A theory that her disappearance was connected with the fact that she caused the principal of her school to whip a pupil who was as large as a man, also has been discarded.

Authorities have found no trace of the black sedan which played its lights on Miss Marriott the night she alighted from the train at Wiggins and started for her hotel, three blocks distant. She never arrived at the hotel.

Author, Son Said To Be Coming West

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 29.—UP—Henry Bedford Jones, author, is believed enroute today to his home in California with his son, Henry, Jr., whom he was alleged to have taken from an Indianapolis hotel where the youth was confined with a nurse.

Helen, 15, Bedford Jones' oldest daughter, ran away from her mother's home in Evansville last July and joined her father in Mount Vernon, accompanying him to his summer home in Michigan, where they joined the second Mrs. Bedford Jones. It was against the second Mrs. Bedford Jones that the first wife has filed $200,000 alienation of affections suit.

FIRST DEFENSE MADE BY RED PLOTTERS

MOSCOW, Nov. 29 —UP— The first word for the defense—an eloquent plea for man's moral right to hold honest, even if mistaken beliefs—was spoken tonight as the trial of eight men who have admitted plotting an interventionist war against the Soviet sped to its climax.

Alexander Fedotov, 67-year-old defendant, who had suffered in silence the many thrusts of the state's prosecutor, Nicholas Krilenko, raised his trembling voice in defense of his own ideals, if not in defense of his actions against the Soviets.

"If Lenin's words had been heeded, you might have avoided our opposition," he cried, when describing the conditions under which engineers worked several years ago.

In Attack

The tragic figure of Fedotov, once head of the textile institute, took the bar even from the vigorous attack which Krilenko had made in hours of questioning, the defendant for the moment, seized attention away from steadily mounting admissions of guilt in a plot to undermine the government and to institute "a reign of terror" against all supporters of the Soviet.

His reference to Nikolai Lenin, the "Little Father" whose picture is in every communist home, was made after he had interrupted the comemnt of Krilenko concerning the kadet or constitutional Democratic party headed by Niliukov which the prosecutor said represented "toothless professorial liberalism."

"I have nothing to be ashamed of," Fedotov said quickly his voice breaking as he faced the vigorous little prosecutor. "Our toothless liberalism, as you call it, was honest. It was the truth as we saw it."

Admits Charges

The crowded courtroom waited in silence for Krilenko's reply, but he resumed his questions—only to be interrupted again by Fedotov.

"You keep harping on the fact that we belong to groups hostile to the Bolsheviks," Fedotov said, "we all admitted that. Why do you insist?"

"I am merely expressing my opinion," said Krilenko with a gentleness that seemed strange in him. "It is your free will to agree or disagree."

Told of Insults

Fedotov laughed, sadly, and said: "Yes, my free will!"

Again the defendant was moved to great emotion when he told of the insults and discriminations heaped on engineers by workers in 1925.

"Lenin said you must live in peace and friendship with the engineers," he exclaimed, recalling the dictator who made the development of electrical projects in Russia his great aim.

"If his words had been heeded, you might have avoided our opposition."

Lenin, it was recalled, once ordered engineers to electrify a Russian village at a moment when the newly formed Soviets were pushed to the limit by the attacks of Czarist troops.

Fedotov lost a large estate and a job that paid $30,000 annually in the revolution, but later was invited to manage his old mill under the Soviets. He had been a liberal and agreed, but later worked secretly against the Bolsheviks.

Train Bandits Get 2 Payrolls

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 29.—UP—Two bandits robbed the express car of southern passenger train No. 10 in the yards here today and escaped with payrolls of two coal companies.

G. C. Finley, express messenger of the car, said the men obtained $7427 in cash. Finley and other members of the express crew were forced to lie on the floor while the bandits made a thorough search of the mail.

Four Killed By Crashing Plane

EDMONTON, Alta, Nov. 29.—To escape some children who were playing on an ice-covered lake Captain W. N. Sherlock of the Commercial Airways, crashed into a pile of gasoline drums, killing four children who had hidden there according to reports from the fur trading post of Fort Chipewayn.

Three other youngsters, who were playing in the drums, were critically injured, and one slightly.

Two Killed By Football Train

MISHAWAKA, Ind., Nov. 29.—UP—A special train, carrying fans to the Army-Notre Dame football game in Chicago, struck a truck at Oscelo, west of here, today and killed two men. The dead were Herbert Shaff, 27, Buchanan, Mich. and Leo Litbenmeier, 29, of Mishawaka.

Famous Old Bad Man Would Clean Chicago

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 29.—UP—Elfego Baco is certain that if cleaning up Chicago is a one-man job, he's the man.

For the last few years, Elfego, now past 60, has just been wasting away for excitement. The most he could get was to run for judge.

Elfego is one of the last of New Mexico's bad men.

Just Bad

Mostly he was right when he was bad, he says, but a bad man just the same.

He had nine notches on his gun when he ran out of space.

He was tried for murder many times, but always acquitted.

He knows little about Chicago, but lots about law enforcement, and like the contemporary bad man of his youth, "Billy the Kid," thinks a gun makes all men equal.

Not So Bad

Chicago bad men, he believes, can't be so bad. Certainly no worse than the bad men of New Mexico back in the days when he was sheriff of Socorro county.

they were bad. In fact he didn't even bother to go out and get his bad men. He wrote them a letter telling them to come in. If they didn't come in, he went after them.

Now he has been reading about the Texas idea of cleaning up Chicago.

Fought 80 Men

Elfego recalls when he once held 80 Texas cowboys at bay 50 hours. He claims he cooked himself a hearty meal and got his regular sleep while keeping the "Texas wolves" from the door.

So if Chicago would clean up, it would do better to pick him instead of a Texas ranger and a few police.

If Chicago is interested, Elfego will dust off his six shooter and start in. The salary, he will leave to Chicago. They can pay him "just what they think it's worth."

Lost Grain Ship Is Reported Safe

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Nov. 29.—The Canadian grain steamer Maple Bay, which had been reported missing and believed down with all hands in Lake Superior, passed safely through the locks here today.

Ship's officers said they had taken shelter from the storm off Kewedinaw Point, and weathered the gale, one of the worst on Lake Superior in years.

CHEVROLET SIX LAUDED BY MANY

Indications of the renewed buying interest in automobiles from coast to coast were manifest here today in hundreds of telegrams that are pouring in on the Chevrolet Motor company, according to officials of Connel and Shumate, local Chevrolet dealers.

The telegrams tell of the sensational reception accorded the new Chevrolet since its introduction, Nov. 15.

Telegrams coming from Chevrolet officials and dealers in all parts of the country offer an excellent cross-section of the buying attitude of the automobile public, and presage an even bigger automobile year than had been anticipated, according to Chevrolet officials.

Prior to the introduction of the new Chevrolet Six at its lower prices, Chevrolet officials were preparing for a banner year in 1931. And now, as a result of the enthusiastic reception accorded the new car, it may become necessary to make further revisions in manufacturing plans to handle the increasing business, it was pointed out.

A particularly gratifying feature of the report is that the buying urge is not confined to any one section, but seems general across the country. Not only in the larger centers, but in the smaller towns, Chevrolet showrooms have been crowded for several days and marked buying enthusiasm shown.

A tabulation of sales figures for the announcement period is now under way. According to officials sales during the announcement period of the last few days will probably break the record set by Chevrolet during the corresponding period of a year ago.

Excerpts from some of the wires tell an interesting story of the attitude of the buying public across the country.

BIGGER AND BETTER

THE NEW CHEVROLET SIX

Strikingly beautiful, fleet and smart —a masterpiece of Fisher styling

Never has the superiority of Body by Fisher been more strikingly exemplified than in the Bigger and Better Chevrolet Six!

With the added advantage of a lengthened wheelbase, Fisher designers have achieved in the new Chevrolet an impressive degree of smartness, comfort and luxury.

Inside and out, scores of refinements stamp this car as a masterpiece of modern coachwork. Radiator, headlamps and tie-bar form an unusually attractive and distinctive ensemble. Mouldings sweep back in an unbroken line to blend with the smart new body contours. And new color combinations lend a new individuality. Interiors, too, are exceptional. The new mohair and broadcloth upholstery is smartly tailored. Seats are wider and more luxuriously cushioned. A deeper windshield and wider windows give better vision. And beautiful new modern fittings lend a final note of charm.

Many mechanical improvements are also evident in this Bigger and Better Six. Among these are a stronger frame; easier steering; a more durable clutch; a quieter, smoother transmission; and important engine refinements.

The Bigger and Better Chevrolet Six is now on display. See it today—drive it! It is the Great American Value!

The Woman Who Wants to Help

ONCE upon a time there was a woman who read all the accounts of unemployment in all the newspapers.

Who heard—as any woman can just now—stories of pathetic need,

Who read and heard of the proposed collection and distribution of millions of dollars

To help the destitute and those out of work

Who saw the headlines about the projected city improvements and national undertakings

Designed to give work to thousands of persons,

Who was told of the organization of many relief groups,

Who was even asked herself to join certain committees of women

Co-operating with large, official, philanthropic movements.

She had no doubt of the sincerity and efficiency of these many important plans—

But, to tell the truth, they rather scared her;

Her husband, thank heaven, still held his job

But he didn't earn an enormous salary,

And the tip had gone around that this year there would be no bonus;

She had three children, who seemed always to be needing new shoes,

And, though they dressed simply, they had to have plenty of warm winter things;

There had been an adenoid operation the year before

And Junior had broken his leg,

So that the little nest egg of savings had shrunk to small size

And simply couldn't be farther reduced, except for the gravest personal emergency.

Taking care of her home and these same children occupied so much of the woman's time

That she didn't feel in a position to serve on committees—

And was afraid of them, too, because she knew that her own financial contributions

Could not be large—since, even in a period of unemployment.

Charity begins at home.

At first, as she thought things over, she came to the unhappy conclusion

That she just couldn't do a thing to help any of the people for whom she was so sorry—

But she felt guilty every time she counted up her own blessings,

For she was a woman with sympathetic, generous instincts,

Who could see farther than the end of her nose, farther than her immediate circle,

And who longed to do her share in helping all the lame dogs

Over the stile of unemployment and poverty.

Yet there are things which this wife and mother, busy in her simple home, can do

To help in the present crisis—

And if all the many women, situated like herself, do all they can,

It will be a more thankful Thanksgiving, a merrier Christmas for the world.

We want to pass along to them the practical suggestions

Which Mrs. Esther L. Schwartz, herself a busy wife, mother, homemaker, puts into a letter to the column.

"In these days," she writes, "when everyone you meet has his own little hard luck story,

"It seems to me that each of us, and especially each mother,

"Should constitute herself a 'Committee of One'

"To see what can be done to help the situation.

"If hard times are with us for the duration of the winter,

"Let us all do a little practical helping instead of useless complaining.

"For I think there's something useful

"That can be done by almost everyone.

"In almost every family which is sufficiently well off to afford a newspaper

"There is enough idle clothing and shoes to outfit a small family.

"Go to your closets and rout out these things—

"The clothing and shoes your children have outgrown,

"The dresses or coats you consider too shabby for you to wear longer,

"Your husband's old suits or shoes or overcoat.

"Most of us have the habit of hoarding such articles against a day that never comes.

"This is the time to get them into the hands of needy ones.

"If you don't know any needy people,

"Ask the nearest policeman to tell you

"Where to dispose of your clothing so that it will do the greatest good."

(Ed. Note: Or fill out that "Old Clothing for Salvation Army" coupon

Which is printed every night in The Evening World.)

"The little children of the poor," continues Mrs. Schwartz,

"Are going to be the greatest sufferers in a spell of depression,

"Milk, being one of the most expensive articles of food,

"Is one of the first to be discontinued by very poor people.

"By spending even as low as twenty-five cents a week

"You can provide a glass of milk daily for a little child in school.

"Go to your child's school and talk with the kindergartner, or one of the teachers in the lower grades,

"And she will tell you how any quarters you care to spend

"Will provide milk for a child.

"Constitute yourself the fairy godmother of one child for the rest of the winter,

"And provide that child with milk through the teacher.

"If you can't do it all alone, get some one to help you.

"Anyone will gladly pledge his quarter a week if you ask him.

"Many people have moderate means but are holding on and not spending.

"Thinking there is little they can do.

"If each one determines he will do what he can,

"The problem is half solved already.

"For instance, go ahead with some contemplated improvement in your house—

"Even if it is only the reupholstering of a chair or a couch,

"The painting of your kitchen,

"The hiring of a cleaning woman for a few hours.

"All of your little expenditures will help some one who is in need.

"Constitute yourself a 'Committee of One'—

"And you'll have your reward in the feeling that, through you,

"Some one has regained, in a measure, his self-respect."

It seems practical—we know of another woman in very moderate circumstances

Who took the Christmas money she had saved to buy gifts for her friends

And used it to buy cloth, from which she made warm new clothes

For a whole family of poor children—

Now she will also give her friends presents costing only a trifle,

Since she is making them with her own clever fingers.

If the woman who truly wants to help does every little thing she can,

The little things will pile up into so much—she'll be surprised!

Seats Easily Made

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

THE THREE ARTICLES EVOLVED WITH THE AID OF PAINT AND CHINTZ

"WHAT to do for three seats that I need," said Catherine, who was in the midst of doing over the whole apartment. "I want a bench to put in front of the fireplace; I need a pretty stool or chair for the new dressing table I evolved from a nice packing box, and I very much need a Mary Ann stool or a grandmother chair to put by the window in the room with the early American pieces."

She solved her problems finally and this is how: From the laundry department of one of the stores she acquired a plain, unpainted wash bench and this she gave a thin coating of darkish brown paint. When the paint was almost dry she smeared on another coat of paint of a slightly darker brown. This, too, she allowed to become almost but not quite dry when she flicked on daubs of black and other daubs of red and with her fingers rubbed them lightly, so that they blended in spots with the ground work or the brown paint. When thoroughly dry she gave the whole a coat of varnish and when dry, rubbed it down, so that it all had a lovely subdued polish. Then for the upholstery. A worn comfortable folded so that it rounded nicely made the right sort of padding and a discarded velveteen dress that had a sprinkling of quaint little flowers all over it answered her purpose for the covering. When this was fitted over and tacked down snugly with upholstery tacks she added a pretty braid and lo! her bench was entirely worthy the place of honor in front of the fireplace.

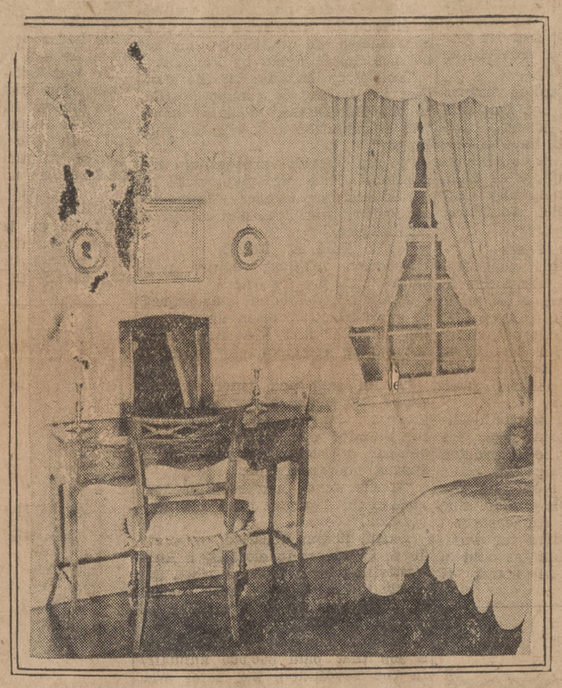
For the seat in front of the dresser she cajoled the grocer into sending her an empty butter tub with its cover. This tub she dressed with a skirt made from the same material as the covering of her dressing table which happened to be a pretty figured chintz. She cushioned the top, gave it a covering of the chintz and by way of decoration tied a band of rose colored taffeta ribbon about three inches wide around the top, finishing with a great bow, the rose color being the predominating one in the chintz.

The Mary Ann chair proved more of a problem. It must have a curved back, it must be low and it must have a box seat. In the end, she marked the shape desired on a kitchen chair and had it sawed down to proper proportions, then made a "box" slipcover to suit her requirements and then after cushioning the seat to the measurements of the slipcover slipped the cover on and added by way of finish a three inch box pleated ruffle of plain color, the slipcover being of figured material.

Pictures and Backgrounds

Arrangements That Will Please and the Other Kind That Will Disturb the Mind

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930



AN IDEAL GROUPING OF SMALL PICTURES OVER A DRESSING TABLE

THERE are some houses that nobody can keep his temper in—and there are some that help so much to make life more cheerful and more comfortable and more imaginative. And this difference between houses does not lie in the money spent upon them. Nor is there any mystery in the way to go about obtaining such comfort and interest in the house.

The "home-making instinct" that one hears of is made up of the ability to select comfortable, well made furniture which has good simple lines; to put this furniture in such friendly groups that one likes to sit in almost any spot in the room; to have the lights so placed that they are convenient for reading and working, and finally to have the colors of walls, draperies, rugs, upholstery, pictures and other decorative objects in restful harmony or refreshing contrast.

Together with the floor coverings the walls form the background of the roof . . . and a really self-respecting background does not leap forward to one's attention; it stays where it belongs. It acts as a fine setting for the higher points of color and interest in the room. A wall with too much going on in conspicuous pattern or shouting color is very disturbing to one's peace of mind . . . and even to one's temper. This is true, by actual test, you know.

On the other hand, when a really interesting and colorful picture is placed on a wall which is papered or tinted in some warm neutral tone, the effect is startlingly beautiful. Such pictures should be hung in relation to the furniture near which they are placed . . . quite close to it, so that a little grouping of furniture and pictures is formed. In fact, pictures hung low are much more pleasing in effect than when placed higher; and in groups they usually are much better in close formation than when spaced wide apart. The effect of intimacy and coziness and warmth is increased by just this simple matter of hanging.

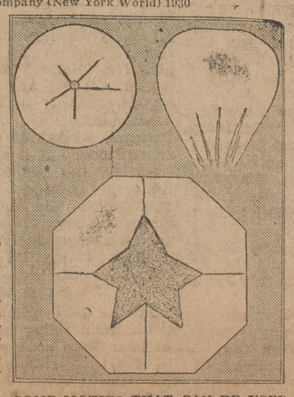
The little group above the poudre or vanity illustrated demonstrates well this point of friendly grouping. Here, hung low above the mirror, is a fairly large picture, and at either side—close enough and low enough to be companionable—are smaller silhouettes. A very unpretentious group, you may say . . . but a group that is extremely satisfying in spite of its relative unimportance.

Another good point to remember is this: A vase of flowers, a bit of pottery or brass, or a fabric on a table or chest near a picture—if it echoes some of the colors in the picture—always makes a pleasing color accent. Pictures can also, by their prevailing colors, emphasize the beauty of draperies near which they are placed. But of course they must be carefully chosen to get such an effect.

How to Make Old Style Rugs

By Helena Banks

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930



SOME MOTIFS THAT CAN BE USED IN HOME-MADE RUGS

THOSE new-old rugs—have you seen them? Have you made one? They look "antique" and they are really lovely if the color scheme is as it should be. One type is patterned from an Aubusson—no less—and should you feel an urge to try your artistic skill at making one, here's how.

First study an Aubusson. Many better class shops are making displays of them. Then outline your own design, leaving out details, and work out your color scheme. For instance, suppose you have a groundwork of soft sage green—a wood shade is always attractive in a rug of almost any character. Procure a length of wool carpeting the desired size and to each end sew a narrow fringe not more than a half-inch wide; this on the right side of the carpet. If the fringe does not match the carpet color perfectly, it is better to buy a cream or tan and tint it to the exact tone.

Next, cut from felt or broadcloth little star or petal shapes or even circular pieces about an inch and a half in diameter and sew these on to form your design. The shapes should be of different colors, and it would be well to cut a dozen or two at a time and use them, then cut another lot so that there need be no waste. In rug mentioned, rust, green, wine and saffron were used on the green foundation.

Another rug that is comparatively easy and certainly interesting to make one's self is a French hand-knotted rug made with a varicolored border and preferably oval in shape. A new idea for these is to use a chenille carpeting for the ground and merely draw in the pattern, by which method much time and labor, not to mention wool, is saved. Rose, aquamarine, beige, cream and the copper tones as well as much yellow and black are used as backgrounds and then the pattern worked in high colors which yet are not too glaringly contrasting.

Some really beautiful effects are accomplished with a loose woven chenille carpet worked with a pull-in stitch in chintz patterns. The small flowers are quickly done, and again, there being no background to be done, the work is comparatively easy. A great deal is being done, too, with a very heavy canvas, rather firmly yet loosely woven which is quite inexpensive, and, while here the background has to be made, the canvas can be bought in different colors and widths or, since the natural color is considerably cheaper, it can be dyed and then serve as a background, with only the design to be filled in. The filling may be done either with the "hooked in" process or with a combination of it and what is called the "Old English" stitch.

In any case, nothing in the realm of house furnishings is more interesting and possibly more satisfying than these rugs made at home, embodying, as they do, one's own ideas in a way not otherwise possible and fitting in so ideally with the new demand for color that has overtaken us—color even on floors.

You and Your Child

By Irma Morris

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

Too Much Protection

"ALL right, you may go to camp," Mary Ellen's father conceded, after months of steady bombardment; "but I refuse to allow you to go in a boat. I would be uncomfortable all summer long if you went on the water." Naturally, Mary Ellen consented to any terms. But, nevertheless, all summer she deeply resented the fact that while the other girls were on the lake, she had to stay in camp.

This father may have had some especially unpleasant experience that made him timid in regard to boating. But, nevertheless, I think he should have made a greater effort to overcame this timidity, as it was so unfair to cut his child off from a perfectly normal and natural activity. To make sure that the directors of his daughter's camp were careful and reliable, was this father's duty and privilege, but further safeguards were unfair and unwise.

If we want our children to develop into free and courageous adults, we have to choke back our fears for them, almost from the day they are born. When the toddler attempts to climb a chair or a step our first impulse is to snatch him to safety! But we realize that he has a right to his experience, so we allow him to go ahead, merely keeping close watch, in case of emergency.

How we shudder with apprehension when the young ones climb trees, build bonfires, swim out beyond their depths, etc. These are some of the many sacrifices that the role of parenthood entails. If we refuse to allow our children to do these things they will either become timid and dependent or defiant and rebellious, according to their individual natures.

The children who become timid are certainly not protected. Whatever they attempt will be done in "fear and trembling," and hence they are much more liable to accident than their surer, more confident companions. On the other hand, those youngsters who have rebelled at our attempts to curb their activities will become much more reckless than they would otherwise have been. Thus, we see, that by being overzealous, we defeat our own object.

I agree heartily with most parents that needless risks should always be eliminated. Where there are small children windows should have protectors; matches and sharp knives should be kept out of reach of little fingers, etc. But, just as soon as possible, children should be taught how to handle matches and knives, how to turn on the gas "for mother," how to cross the streets with care and how to do the million and one things which make their parents gasp with terror, but which, to them, are merely necessary steps in the process of growing up.

Two Useful Hints

DO YOU darn silk stocking heels and toes before wearing them?

Many women do to preserve the life of them. In Germany this is practically an invariable custom. And, by the same token, do you sew a bit of tape on both sides of your hosiery where the garters are attached? That is another life-saver for the stockings, as it prevents runs.

Do you always leave a bit of soap in the final rinsing water when you wash woolens? Try it and see how fluffy it makes them.

Careful Use of Chemicals for Stains

CHEMICALS should not be used to remove stains until after water has been tried, provided the fabric is suitable to water treatment.

There is always danger that chemicals will change the color of the fabric or attack the fiber, so it is advisable to always try these first on some inconspicuous part of the fabric. It is well to even test the effect of water in the same way, to make sure it will not cause water spots or change the color.

When using chemicals work rapidly so as to give them as little time as possible to act on the fibers. It is better to make several brief applications and rinse immediately than to allow the chemicals to remain on the stain too long.

When applying chemicals stretch the fabric over a bowl of clean water and drop the chemical on the stain with a medicine dropper or, if more convenient, a pad of cloth may be placed underneath the stain and the chemical applied by means of a glass rod with smooth rounded ends. Always follow the application by rinsing in several changes of water. Rapid drying will prevent ring formation. If you cannot hang the cleansed article in a breeze use a hair drier or a fan.

Hangers Made Practical

THE kiddies' coats almost unvariably were on the floor and when reprimanded they insisted they had put them on the hangers. When mother's sweaters and other garments had a habit of slipping off the wooden hangers, that was a different story. So she purchased large sized, rubber-tipped tacks at the hardware store and pushed one of these in at each end of the hanger and the clothing stayed put. Simple, is it not?

This reminds me—the woman who has a modern closet will prefer the hangers covered in velvet to match the color scheme of her closet. They come in wood and strong wire covered with velvet in a variety of colors. These make practical gifts and if a hat stand to match is included it will make a set that will please the fastidious woman, so jot that item down on your Christmas shopping list.

A Helpful Suggestion

When grinding bread or other dry foods the annoyance of having crumbs scattering over the table may be overcome by tying an ordinary paper bag over the mouth of grinder. The ground particles will all go inside the bag and not a crumb is wasted nor is there any mess to clean up.

TELLING THE WORLD

By Neal O'Hara

Copyright, Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

(It is with great pleasure and no little regret that we present these articles on trick plays and inside football to our readers. The author of this series, J. Hermen Seidlitz, is an old time player and coach. At Bozo College he played six years on the freshman team. In 1906 he was traded to Hoodwink University in exchange for a second-hand Ford and a cash consideration of 50,000 soap wrappers. After that his football progress was rapid. At the memorable Princeton-Yale game of 1914 he worked his way into the bowl disguised as an oyster cracker. The following week, when Yale played Harvard, Mr. Seidlitz was on the sidelines wearing a photographer's badge and warming up all afternoon. In the closink quarter of that great battle he stopped a threatening Crimson rally by requesting the Harvard team to pose for a dozen stills. Yale scored five touchdowns while the Harvard boys tried to look pleasant. This strategy made him so famous at Cambridge that the next week he was moved up from thirty-seventh to first place on the blacklist. Today Mr. Seidlitz explains some more of his trick plays.)

THE REAL INSIDE FOOTBALL

By J. Herman Seidlitz

MANY devoted readers have asked me what was the greatest play I ever conceived. This is a hard question to answer as practically every one of my plays was good for a touchdown unless something went wrong. But fortunately for our opponents, something always did. The play I take the most pride in, however, was my famous banana split formation, which I invented with Thomas A. Edison.

To execute the banana split successfully it was necessary to catch the opposing team off its guard. So during the early part of each game our student band would play, "Yes, We Have No Bananas." This lulled our opponents into a sense of security and, right when they least expected it, we pulled off the banana split.

* * *

The play started by having our captain call time out. Our trainer would then rush on the gridiron with a bucket of drinking water, but the players would wave him back and say they wanted bananas and cream. We then sent them out a dozen bananas and four quarts of cream. They took their time in eating them as they sat there on the gridiron and also took good care to scatter the banana skins at a certain strategic point.

That done, the teams would line up again and the banana split formation would be called. As the ball was snapped back, ten players charged sideways in one direction while the eleventh man, who carried the ball, would run in the opposite direction to where the banana skins had been strewn. When he reached this point, he would slip off tackle. And that's all there was to it. I have seen a half back slip forty yards for a touchdown.

Once the banana split play develops, there is no way of stopping it. The only possible defense against this play was worked out by Coach Gobel of Hoodwink University. His strategy was really clever until we overcame it. It was simply this: When my boys sat down and called for bananas and cream, Coach Gobel bribed out trainer to bring in sliced oranges instead.

* * *

On that occasion our players strewed the ground with orange peels, but when the ball was rushed, these did not seem to carry. Our half back simply could not slip off tackle on orange peels. What happened was, he stepped on the peels, a drop of orange juice squirted in his eye and he was thrown for a loss of five yards and his eyesight.

After that, we always bonded our trainer against taking bribes and no other team was ever able to stop us.

After this banana split became so famous, Mr. Edison claimed he invented it alone. I have proof it was my own idea, however. It is true I consulted with Mr. Edison when I was inventing this play. But his only contribution was in suggesting that we serve cream with the bananas.

TOT SLAYER TO FACE TRIAL MONDAY

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 29.—UP—Mrs. Pearl O'Loughlin comforted herself by reading the Tewenty-Third Psalm in court today while attorneys sought a jury to try her on the charge of murdering her stepdaughter, Leona, 10.

She appeared physically and mentally improved over Friday, when she lost a plea for more delay and went to trial on the information accusing her of killing the stepchild by feeding her more than a teaspoonful of ground glass, slugging her on the head with a tire iron, and drowning her in Berkeley park lake.

Mrs. O'Loughlin's brother John Weisz, an attorney, came to court and took a seat at her counsel table to aid her in defense of her life. She kissed and embraced him.

Read Pslam

While District Attorney Earl Wettengel fired question after question at the prospective jurors to learn if they would vote to hang the woman if the evidence warranted, she read to herself from a slip of paper on which was printed the Twenty-third Psalm.

The defense exercised its seventh peremptory challenge and the state sixth at today's session before court was adjourned until Monday when the guest for the jury will be resumed. Each side is permitted 15 peremptory challenges.

Man after man filed through the jury box, attorneys encountering literally scores who had an opinion of the case which they said they could not disregard.

Dressed in Black

Most of them ascribed their opinions to publicity given the crime and investigation .

Mrs. O'Loughlin, dressed in black, appeared in the courtroom today with a new pair of satin slipped with high French heels, and without her wedding ring. Her husband, Leo O'Loughlin, a city detective and father of the slain child, sat a few feet from her and stared at her. Not a word was exchanged between them.

Chief defense counsel John M. Keating indicated today that unless Mrs. O'Loughlin's physical condition improves perceptibly over the week-end recess, he may go before the state supreme court Monday in an attempt to have that tribunal order a postponement of the trial.

Prize Winner

DR. KARL LANDSTEINER, eminent bacteriologist and pathologist, who since 1922 has been a member of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, who was awarded the Nobel Prize for medicine. It was made by the Stockholm Faculty of Medicine.

NEW BOOKS AT LIBRARY

A number of interesting books on varied subjects have just been added to the shelves of the Richmond public library.

These volumes are:

"GROW THIN ON GOOD FOOD"—A woman and a physician and one who loved good food (and who at one time weighed 203 pounds) tells how without injuring the health or starving oneself it is possible to keep down weight. Much good advice along lines of general health is given as well as special menus and original recipes. Dr. Luella Axtell is the author.

"PAUL REVERE"—Written by Emerson Taylor, this is the first lengthy biography of Paul Revere. Another new biography of an historical character is that of "Benedict Arnold, the proud warrior" by Chas. Sellers.

"SEPPALA, ALASKAN DOG RIVER"—The greatest dog driver in Alaska tells of his exploits with dog teams and particularly of his race to Nome with serum. The first part of the book gives an account of his boyhood in Norway.

"PSYCHOLOGY FOR TEACHERS"—A recent book by Ellsworth Collings of the University of Oklahoma, on the purposive behavior of boys and girls.

"THE HALF-WAY SUN"—R. E. Barton's account of his life among the head-hunters of the Philippines. Many interesting illustrations.

"SIMPLIFIED AERODYNAMICS"—The author, Alexander Klemin, gives here the fundamentals of aerodynamics which must be known to everyone connected with the aviation industry, and by those who plan to become fliers.

"MEMORIES AND VAGARIES"—Axel Munthe, the author of "The Story of San Michelle" tells here something more of his life and of people he has known.

"CATTLE"—The story of the cattle days of Texas and the Southwest, written by William M. Raine, the writer of western stories.

"MEDDLERS"—An account of the various reforming movements and individuals in this country whose activities intrude upon personal liberty. Mr. Brook is outspoken but entertaining.

Local Company Will Purchase Huge Barge

A new barge equipped to handle freight between San Francisco and Richmond has just been purchased by Capt. H. P. Lauritzen of Richmond Navigation and Improvement company. Equipment for handling of shipments has also just been added to the working facilities of the company.

Purchase of the new equipment indicates the faith of the company in the growth of shipping on the harbor which is expected to result with the elimination of the 26 percent differential on freight shipments now destined to Richmond.

Elimination of the differential was practically assured this week following the appearance of an examiner for the Interstate Commerce commission to hear arguments for the cut.

The new barge is of approximately 500 tons capacity and is 110 feet long and 32 feet beam. Another barge, a tug boat and a freight boat compose the equipment of the concern.

Elevators may also be installed on the barges to speed up the unloading and loading process.

Scissors, razors and tool grinding, saw filing, keys made. 261 9th St. 11-30-tf.

Zero Weather Expected In Midwest Soon

CHICAGO, Nov. 29 — UP— A storm originating in the Hudson bay region of Canada, set its course for the middle west with oursiders freezing and snow flying ahead.

The snowfall of the eastern and south central portions of the middle west turned to rain in some parts. Temperatures receded in the west, the cold spreading eastward toward Ohio and Michigan.

Navigation on the Great Lakes was warned of the coming storm. Small craft signals were general except on eastern Lake Erie, where more extreme conditions were expected.

Streets Ice Covered

Ice-coated streets and highways where snow had melted and frozen added hazards to motoring particularly around Chicago, where accidents were numerous. Railroad transportation was slowed by icy rails.

Milder temperatures in the Chicago area remained only long enough to encourage football fans to bundle up and venture to fairly comfortable seats at Soldier's field.

A steady drizzle fell in Chicago during the day, but it failed to melt the ice on the streets except in the Loop.

Rain Falls

The rain fell from the Texas panhandle northeastward changing to snow in the Great Lakes region. On Lake Michigan hung a light fog, requiring caution by navigators.

Zero temperatures which were general in the mid-west on Thanksgiving day will be back again by Monday, the general forecast for this area said.

Today's sleet and rain stopped airplane traffic. Only one mail plane came through from the East today. Passenger planes and outgoing mail planes remained on the ground. Several mail planes from the south and southwest were reported to have been forced down enroute to Chicago.

Bates Funeral To Be Held Monday

Mrs. Winnie L. Bates will be buried in Sunset View cemetery Monday afternoon following services at Wilson and Kratzer chapel at 2 o'clock.

The Rev. Primus Bennett will officiate. Mrs. Bates is survived by her husband, B. D. Bates.

Grand Jury To Probe Chicago Police Force

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—A unified police force consisting of all law agencies of Cook county may be created if the group called to meet by Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the criminal court and John A. Swanson, state's attorney general ends favorably.

At the same time a special session of the grand jury will investigate the activities of Chicago police force, and their alleged association with gangsters and racketeers. Other matters to be discussed by the grand jury will be the former affiliation of Alfred (Jake) Lingle, slain Tribune reporter and William F. Russell, former police commissioner.

Many Tickets For Elks Show Are Reserved

A large number of Richmond residents had their ticketes for the benefit play "Rollin' Along" to be staged by Richmond Elks Dec. 4 and 5 reserved today following the first opportunity to do so when the ticket office opened yesterday.

When the ticket office was opened at 1 p. m. a large number of persons were in line to make their reservations. No reservation was made prior to that time. Questioning of those present indicated that no prior reservations had been made.

Before the first performance is given Thursday night in Richmond Union High school auditorium, a larger number of persons are expected to have reserved seats. The auditorium which seats 1600 is expected to be well filled both nights of the performance.

One of the best performances ever offered by local talent is expected to be produced under the direction of Earl Caldwell. Rehearsals of the cast have been held almost nightly and the entire group was reported to be in nearly perfect form for the show.

A male chorus under direction of Forest Cubbon of San Francisco and Mathilda Meyer kiddies is expected to add greatly to the performances. Al Newman of San Francisco will be interlocutor.

Box office in the Elks building will be open daily until Thursday night when applicants may purcharse tickets at the high school.

Tot's Orchestra To Play At M. E. Church Tonight

On Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock, the "Midget Rhythm" orchestra of the Methodist Episcopal Oriental Home of San Francisco, will appear at the Wesley Methodist Episcopal church of Richmond. The conductor of this orchestra is a little tot five years of age. A group of sixteen children from this home will also appear in songs and other special features.

This group of children have met with a wonedrful reception whereever they have made an appearance. Another special feature for this service will be a beautiful pageant presented by a group of young people from Wesley church. The public is invited to this unusual evening service.

Infant Son Is Called By Death

Funeral services will be conducted at 9:30 tomorrow morning from Wilson and Kratzer's chapel for Raquel Arriaga, five months old infant son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Arriaga, who died at the family home, 401 A street yesterday morning. The child is survived by its parents and a sister.

Interment will be in St. Josephs.

Building Taken By Thieves, In Piece By Piece

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 29.—UP—A pile of rocks and a few girders were all that remained today of a $60,000 building and the owners, or rather former owners of the structure were wondering what became of the rest of it.

They say it just "walked away."

Despite its cost, Chester Robinson of the Marion County State Bank, agent for mortgage holders on the building, can't help laughing when he relates of the strange disappearance of the structure, limb by limb.

"It was a three-story structure, formerly used by the Bell Packing company until a year and a half ago," he said.

"One day I got a call from a man who asked if he could buy some concrete blocks on the building. He said people were taking them away and that he wanted a clear title to them.

"It was news to me so I went down there. The building was about half gone. The roof was lost, plumbing taken away, and the floors had disappeared. Three trucks were backed up near the building and men were continuing the dismantling.

"I questioned one of them and he said he was using the stones to build a house. By the time I could get police, the wreckers were gone."

Robinson believes there are parts of the building in several homes around the city and other parts made into chicken coops, garages and dog kennels.

Unexpected Air Ride Taken By California Man

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 29.—UP—Although he was neither stamped nor cancelled, Ralph Meyers, of Bakersfield, took an unexpected and thrilling ride with the airmail last night, it was learned today.

The pilot of an airmail plane at Bakersfield, thought he saw the "all clear" signal given, and proceeded to take his plane off with Meyers, who had been loading the sacks aboard, still on the wing.

For half an hour Meyers clung to struts, despite the chill 90 mile wind that all but whipped him from his perilous perch.

He finally succeeded in crawling to the side of the cabin, where he attracted the pilot's attention by knocking on the cabin window.

He was taken into the cabin and "thawed out," none the worse for his experience.

Mother Of Local Woman Is Called

Mrs. Eva Herbst 27 Seventh street, has been called to Nooksack, Washington, by the death of her mother, Mrs. Hattie Sills, who passed away the other day at the age of 76. Mrs. Sills visited her daughter here several times.

Cook Funeral Here On Monday

Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock is the time set for funeral services for John Cook, 465 Stanford avenue, who died Friday after a long illness. Wilson and Kratzer are in charge of the services. Interment will be at Sunset View.

Cook was a native of Serbia, and was 37 years of age. He worked at the Stanford Sanitary plant.

He leaves a widow, Mrs. Agnes Cook, and a son and daughter, George 5, and Millie, 9.

Ready for Another Year of Progress!

The Richmond Chamber of Commerce dedicates itself to another year of community work for the advancement of the city.

At the recent annual dinner there was visible evidence of the interest which is taken in public affairs when the members of the Chamber and a large group of outside men from neighboring cities gathered to hear the story of the past twelve months and help plan the work of the coming period.

As the Chamber of Commerce has been the moving force behind the progressive developments of the past three or four years, so it will be in the forefront of all progressive movements of the future.

A Chamber of Commerce is merely a voluntary organization of business interests. To achieve results it must have the support of those interests. More support is needed by the Chamber of Commerce of this city if we are to cash in on our share of the nation-wide prosperity which is just around the corner. Every local business and professional man has an interest in the attraction of new industries, which in turn mean greater population and more money in circulation in Richmond. The Chamber of Commerce has dedicated itself to this one fundamental task—the attraction of new industries. It can accomplish its purpose only with the support of the community.

Support Your Chamber of Commerce and It Will Do the Things You Want Done!
